

Collaboration for Change

A TASK FOR OUR TIME

Saturday 6th October 2018

9.30am - 4.30pm

Whittaker Suite, The Guildhall, Derry

An invitation for everyone involved in creating progressive alternatives that put people and planet first.

A gathering of citizen-led movements on the anniversary of the Civil Rights Movement, creating the space for collaboration

'a place where those who say it can't be done take back seat to those who are doing it.' Laura Flanders

Collaboration for Change is inspired by the anniversaries in 2018 of the Civil Rights Movement in Derry and the signing of the Universal Rights Declaration.

We will explore the contributions already being made to building a just and resilient society in Northern Ireland and beyond and how we can develop that work by collaboration between the various economic, social, cultural and environmental alternatives. We recognise that our own work can only be enhanced by learning and sharing and are committed to creating spaces for this to happen.

American activist, speaker, economist and environmentalist Michael Albert will be there to offer his support and expertise.

The 6th October Gathering is the first of three planned events shaping a collaborative movement which puts people and planet first.

Register now to receive a full programme along with further information about the day as it becomes available. Registration will also guarantee your place.
